What is CATIS?

The Cyber and Terrorism Insurance Studies Center (CATIS) is a forthcoming NSF Industry–University Cooperative Research Center (IUCRC) jointly led by the University at Albany, SUNY and the University of Michigan focused on catastrophic cyber and terrorism risk insurance.

At the Planning Meeting:

- Presentation of proposed research projects and activities
- Learn the depth of research capabilities and infrastructure of CATIS
- Real-time industry evaluation and feedback
- Discussion of membership structure and next steps

Why This Matters

- Directly shape the initial CATIS research agenda
- Collaborative refinement of the research roadmap
- Ensure projects address real underwriting, modeling, accumulation, and regulatory pain points
- Influence which projects move forward into Phase I
